HEAVENS! Wiggins is going to lecture.

THERE are fears that several dead heads will attend the Czar's picnic.

GENERAL HANCOCK weighs more than 250 pounds now and is just as good a man as ever.

WE agree with Rev. Joseph Cook that there is much in the American press that requires reformation.

THE governor's franchise bill in Canada, introduced recently, gives a vote to widows and spinsters with a property valuation of $400.

THAT Texas meteor story turned out as we suspected—the mammoth lie of the season. Texas is a big place, it is true, but that yarn was too big even for her.

A NEW weather prophet in Allegheny city predicts that this world will suffer from a great drought during the coming summer. This prophet should have removed to Canada before sending out his predictions. No one in Pennsylvania will believe him.

DELAWARE has so much surplus revenue that the only way it can get rid of it is to increase salaries; and now the governor is to be paid $2,500, and the chief justice $3,000, and the governor's house is to be whitewashed and new mosquito nets supplied to the chief justice's library windows.

THE South, says the Philadelphia Press, is always wondering how long the North will wave the bloody shirt and prolong the bitterness of war; but in Georgia, which is a state of advanced views, as Southern States go, the Democratic candidate for Governor, McDaniels, has had to deny in the most emphatic way that he ever had any connection with the Union League.

THERE are certain facts brought out in the census of 1880 which have a curious interest, and amongst them the increase of women and children who earn wages by their work. There is an increase of about fifty per cent. between 1870 and 1880, in the last named year there being 2,747,157 women and 1,118,455 children between the ages of ten and fifteen, following gainful occupation. It is thought the accessions to the foreign population may account for this increase of working women and children.

ACCORDING to the English papers the Prince of Wales' new railway carriage is a marvel of asthetic decoration. It is fifty feet long, and contains saloon, study, two bedrooms, two dressing rooms and a bath room. The prince's bed-room is hung with old gold silk, and the furniture is upholstered to match. Mirrors are let into the door panels, and the whole suit can be lighted either by candles or by electricity. Though only a prince, he will travel in almost as much magnificence as an American railroad superintendent or general manager.

A GERMAN exchange furnishes the following figures of the consumption of champagne in the chief countries of the world. England heads the list, drinking fifty millions of bottles a year; the United States, Canada and Mexico consume ten millions; France, two and a half millions; Russia, two millions; Germany, one million and a half; Holland 600,000; Italy and Belgium, half a million each; Spain, 300,000, and Africa, 100,000 bottles. Now will some statistician, German or otherwise, tell us how much of the champagne contained in these sixty-eight million bottles was genuine?

Socialism in this Country.

The New York Times has been making a careful study of the Socialist and Communist elements in that city. It finds that both organizations date their existence from the Franco-Prussian war, the former being the froth from Germany and the latter from France. When first collected together the members of both organizations were very fierce in their denunciation of government, society and capital. They demanded the leveling of everything, displayed the most bloodthirsty mottoes and applauded the bitterest denunciations of all established things.

Their membership included many skilled laborers who were able to obtain work at remunerative wages. Gradually these men, with the frugal instincts of their nations, saved money which was invested in homes and business. As they secured this start in life their socialistic views underwent a marked change. They were not so enthusiastic in their demand for the leveling process. They dropped out of the societies for agitation or they were changed into organizations for pleasure or mutual improvement. The result is that there are not more than two hundred Socialists and Communists of the bloodythirsty order remaining in New York, and not to exceed a thousand of all kinds and degrees.

The same is true in even a greater degree, of the entire country, as New York has always had a larger proportion of this kind than could be found in any other community. It is simply the conserving influence of a house and lot. The rewards of labor are both sure and swift and the educating influence of free speech so potent that any other result would be unnatural. When these people have just come out of the cave of Adullam the prospect appears dark and unpromising, but when they discover that all wealth has been created by labor and they have only to sell this commodity to enjoy its fruits themselves, revolutionary ideas and Utopian dreams are alike dissipated.

Such figures ought to reassure those people who are in mortal dread of free speech and who lament the fearful license which is indulged under it. It can best be suppressed by letting it severely alone. If the English Government had been wise enough to spend the money used in detecting, convicting and imprisoning Herr Most in buying him a small house and lot in the suburbs of London he would have settled down and long ere this he would have become one of the mildest and most harmless of men. Socialism only needs to be given work and a license to talk and it will effect its own cure.

IT is understood in Iowa that the supreme court will stick to its decision that the prohibitory amendment is invalid, on account of informalities in its submission. In that event the letter will be allowed to kill again, though the spirit makes alive. The people adopted the amendment knowing just what it signified, and its final overthrow on a mere technicality will be the result of that kind of legal vision which discerns a fly on a barn door. The court, however, will throw the blame on the legislature, which ought to have obeyed all the technical requirements of the case. The legislature certainly deserves a lecture. Carelessness in law making is bad enough but utterly inexcusable in constitution mending—Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin.

THE present month—April—appears to have been thus far the height of the fashionable season at Atlantic City, and perhaps some of our readers may be surprised to learn that five hotels in the fashionable quarter on or near Pacific avenue have been full to overflowing with transient visitors. It is only justice to say that New York fashion led the way at most of these hotels during the month of March.

Editorial Comments.

The New York Nation says that the effects of the new pension law, which grants an increase in the rate of pensions from $24 to $30 per month to those Union soldiers who lost a leg above the knee or an arm above the elbow, begin already to be felt in the Pension Office, more than 32,000 papers in the nature of evidence, 52,000 reports, and 46,000 letters having been received last month. One would think that nothing could be easier than to prevent fraud when the application of the law seems to be naturally guided by occular observation. But the ingenuity of the pension swindler has thus far baffled all calculation as to the depth of its resources, and unless the agents of the Pension Office are uncommonly vigilant, the pension rolls will soon contain thousands of names whose owners had never suspected themselves before of having lost an arm just above the elbow, or a leg just above the knee. Fraud on a large scale can be prevented only by having pension claims adjudicated as much as possible on personal inspection of the claimants, and as little as possible on the strength of mere affidavits. This may cost some money, but it will prevent the expenditure of much more money in the end.

THE failure of Marshall & Co., iron manufacturers, of Pittsburg, for a million and a half, is thought by the Harrisburg Telegraph to be one of the results of long uncertainty of tariff legislation and final enactment of an importers' tariff by the Democrats and their Independent Republican agents. The depression in the iron market about a year ago, and fall in prices, found the firm with a large quantity of high priced iron on hand. The see saw in prices consequent upon agitation in Congress wiped the firm out of more than a hundred thousand dollars in a few months. The failure, however, is not a bad one for the creditors, as there is on hand fully 60,000 tons of metal, which is estimated at $20 per ton, and the estate is valued at half a million. The most disastrous effect will be in closing the half dozen mills and furnaces run by the firm and throwing out of employment a very large number of workmen. But when free-trade Democratic reform has a dance some one must pay the fiddler.

APPARENTLY the life of a special envoy from Madagascar is not a very safe or happy one. Those Malagassy ambassadors who were in this country not long ago are said to be afraid to go home. During their absence their political rivals have succeeded in prejudicing the Sovereign against them by accusing them of having sacrificed her interests, and they apprehend that the air of their native country just now might not be good for their health. The diplomatic service of Madagascar can hardly be a very attractive sphere of action.

WHEN American forests are mentioned most people think of the great Northwest; but it is said to be a fact that no forests of America will to-day compare with those of North Carolina in variety and luxuriance of growth. That State contains almost 46,000 miles of unbroken forest, containing all the best known species of trees to be found in this country. On the uplands may be found the white pine and the hemlock; on the lawlands, the palmetto and the magnolia. Of the twenty-two species of oak to be found East of the Rocky Mountains, nineteen grow in North Carolina, and twice as many varieties of trees grow within the limits of that State as may be found in the whole of Europe. For arborculture, it is one of the most favored regions of the globe; every variety of tree grows with a rank luxuriance unknown in the North. Some tulip trees may be found more than a hundred feet high, and measuring thirty feet around at the foot of the trunk.

IT is evident that when the National debt is finally paid off the United States will be found to be a larger gainer through the destruction and loss of its paper promises to pay. Every month the debt on which interest has ceased, and for which no one claims payment, increases, until there is now lying in the Treasury nearly eleven millions of unclaimed principal and interest, which has accrued at various dates from 1837 and earlier down to December 23, 1882. Of the $49,000,000 of fractional paper currency issued during and since the war $15,386,512 are still outstanding and redemptions have almost ceased. By act of Congress passed in 1879, $8,375,934, which it was estimated had been destroyed, were declared cancelled and entered as paid on the Treasury books. A more correct estimate of the Government gain from this source would have been $15,000,000, or more than thirty per cent. of the amount issued. The Government gain on the $346 000,000 legal-tender notes will doubtless be very large, through a much smaller percentage than in the case of fractional currency, where the wear and tear were very great. Whether the Government or the banks will eventually receive the benefit arising from lost and destroyed bank currency is a point not yet definitely determined, but it seems reasonable that for the currency lost while in the possession of the people, the people themselves, through the Government, should receive what benefit shall finally accrue on account of this destruction.—Phil'a Press.

THE Republicans of Fayette county acted wisely in not nominating the brother of the late Captain Nutt for the Legislature. Had the Democrats dishonored their party by the nomination of Hill, the apologist and supporter of Dukes, there would have been eminent fitness in nominating Captain Nutt's brother as his competitor, but when the Democrats rejected Hill and thus refused to make the party responsible for Dukes' disgraceful record, the Republicans did well to let the issue be forgotten. Had Hill been nominated, the people of Fayette county would have been glad of the opportunity to resent it by electing the brother of Captain Nutt; but the family of the father who was slain in resenting the dishonor of his daughter have deep sores to be torn afresh by any agitation of the question. Beyond the ineffaceable infamy of L. N. Dukes, the charity of forgetfulness should cover the tragedy and all involved in it.—Phil'a Times.

AMONG the most interesting items in the statistics furnished in the annual report of the internal revenue department of this state, is the indebtedness of all the counties in the state, by which it will be seen that this debt amounts to the very large sum of $76,301,876.35, or an average of more than one million to each county. Philadelphia county leads off with $68,453,829.67; next comes Allegheny with $4,423,993 37; Delaware follows with $465,000; Chester comes after with $320,000; Lancaster county is not much behind, with $287,100 after which comes Crawford, Berks, Armstrong, Dauphin, Lackawanna and Lycoming, in the order named, all owing more than $100,000. From this sum the figures dwindle down, Pike being the lowest on the list, her indebtedness being only 2,800. But there are no fewer than 29 counties that have no debt at all. Among these figures are not included the city, borough and township indebtedness, which would swell the aggregate very considerably.

IT is reported that the Standard oil company has offered ex-Governor Hoyt $7,500 per year for legal services, and he is deliberating about accepting the offer. As he has no political future he might as well pocket the fee.

THE Democratic party is divided between the men who believe in winning more than they believe in free trade and the men who believe in free trade more than they believe in winning. This is a free country, Mr. Randall has all the rights and a good deal more sense in the Democratic party than Mr. Watterson has; but it must be distinctly understood this time that there can be no dodging between candidate and platform. The subject is up, public interest is aroused and the issue must be met. The Republican party proposes a fair trial to the revised tariff, and no tampering with the conditions of American industry. Does anybody know what the Democratic party is for?

ARMED with American rifles, inspired with American whisky and fed by American benevolence, the noble red man of Arizona is proving his gratitude in the usual way by treating a town of white people as if it were a corral of buffaloes. As usual, too, the noble red man, who by latest statistics is always dying out, appears in this last Arizona trouble in the proportion of about 60 Indians to 20 whites. Evidently the red man understands the merit of concentration; hence, as long as there are two of him left he will likely be in a majority over the white settler and the American army.

SOME childish old man of eighty in New York has been making a present of $50,000 worth of United States Bonds to a servant girl, and the relatives have petitioned Secretary Folger, through a lawyer, to prevent the transfer. But the application come too late. The transfers were made in due form, and the enterprising maiden has already turned them into cash, and, presumably, invested some of the proceeds in jewelry and Spring bonnets. The girl has beaten the lawyer, the heirs and the old man, and does not have to wait to have any will proved. Her enterprise would almost fit her for operations in Wall Street.

IT IS primarily the fault of a small but terrible boy in the Maryland village of Trappe that his sister's back now resembles a map of the world on Mercator's projection. He took home from school the other day a quart of ink in a bottle precisely similar to that in which is kept the family supply of hartshorn liniment. The pangs of rheumatism in the night, a sympathetic aunt and a hurried search in the dark sufficed to precipitate a catastrophe which has thrown an estimable young woman into the deepest mourning.

IT was generally supposed when the magnificent Treasury Building at Washington was erected that its dimensions were abundantly ample for the accommodation of the Treasury business for all future time. It appears now, however, that more room is needed and efforts are being made to provide accommodations for several branches of the Treasury service outside of the building.

OUR hope and expectation is that the Italians and Hungarians who are being brought to free, independent America may soon imbibe the spirit of our institutions and demand that a day's work shall receive a day's wages—enough to provide a comfortable and respectable maintenance.

THE Democratic party is endeavoring to convince the colored voter that the Republican party is not his friend and cares only for his vote. Colored voter, if the Republican party is not your friend, you are friendless; and the Democratic party is your worst enemy.

MRS. LANGTRY'S American trip has already netted her nearly $230,000. It is better, indeed, to be a lily than an actress. But how she would enrich herself if she could act as well as look pretty!

THE MAIDEN AND THE MOUSE.

There was a maide had a cat,
She rather doted on the beast,
But said her love would be increased
If she could only teach it that
'Twas cruel, when for game it hid,
To torture mice the way it did.

The cat and maiden together sat
One day in the purring tete-a-tete,
When in there walked a mouse, and great
The shriek the maiden gave thereat,
And ere her demon yawp did cease
She fluttered to the mantel piece.

The mouse, at sound of maiden howl,
Sustained a nervous shock and lit
Into a paralytic fit.
Grimalkin fired off a yowl,
And too perturbed to think of play,
Did smite the mouse's life away.

With dying breath the striken mite
Exclaimed, 'I think thee, agile puss,
This being scared to death is 'w ass'
Than being killed with sudden smite.
I'd rather thus in trice be slain
Than hear that woman yelp again."

Oh, maiden, on the mantel shelf!
While palpitates thy heart, reflect,
Did'st ever, ever yet suspect,
How much more frightened than thyself
This zoologic dot should be
That drives thee thus to lunacy?

THE LOOM OF LIFE.

All day, all night, I can hear the jar
Of the loom of life, and near and far
It thrills with its deep and muffled sound
As tireless the wheels go round and round.

Busily, ceaselessly, goes the loom,
In the light of day and then midnight gloom,
And the wheels are turning early and late,
And the woof is wound in the warp of fate.

Are we spinners of good in this life-web, say?
Do we finish or weave a thread each day?
It were better, then, by far to spin
A beautiful thread than a thread of sin.

FIVE THINGS.

What makes the time run short?
Business or busy sport.

What makes it long to you?
Hands with no work to do.

What brings death quickly in?
Slowness to work and win.

What wins the glowing gold?
The stroke that is brisk and bold.

What man stands near the throne?
The man who can hold his own!

—Goethe.

—He stands upon the pavement
And wrestles with the breeze;
He looks in through the window;
And this is what he sees:—
Lights low; a combination
Of moustache and of curl—
Another fellow's hugging
The other fellow's girl.

Our Story Teller.

"Cousin Frank."

"I must now bid you good-morning, Miss Ogden; my train is about starting. I am sorry you are obliged to remain here until to-morrow, in consequence of the break in the road; but you will find everything pleasant here at the Sherman House. I have entered your name on the books, and have also given the name and address of your father, which will be all the guarantee you will require for the best treatment they can give you."

"That is all right, Mr. Werden, and I am greatly obliged for your kindness," was the pleasant response.

The lady whose attendant had thus bowed himself out and away was a happy young girl of eighteen, who had been spending the holidays with some relatives in St. Louis, and was now on her way to her home in Rochester. She had been accustomed to travel, both in company and alone, and did not regard it as a very serious calamity when she heard from the gentleman in whose charge she had been placed, and who had accompanied her as far as Chicago, that she would be obliged to remain there a day or two.

It was now eight o'clock in the morning, and having breakfasted in her room, and while thinking how pleasant it would be to find some one in that great city whom she knew, she chanced to remember having heard her father say that he had a nephew residing there by the name of Charles Brown, a dealer in hardware.

The city directory having been sent for, gave her the address of "Charles Brown, Hardware," and within the next twenty minutes a cab placed the young lady, with her satchel in her hand, at the door of his residence.

The bell had been rung, and steps were approaching the door, when our heroine began for the first time to query with herself as to whether she had gone into the cousin business in the most prudent way. Would it not have been better to have sent her card and informed those cousins that she was at the hotel, and would be glad to see them? She must now go in and say to the lady:

"I am a cousin of your husband. My name is Agatha Ogden, and I am a daughter of Ralph Ogden, of Rochester, New York."

How different an awkward transaction looks, when we get fairly into it, from what it does when thought of or seen at a distance!

"I am much pleased to see you, Miss Ogden!" was the form in which the young lady was received by Mrs. Brown. "Please let me take your hat and wraps. My sister, Miss Williams," she added, as the lady thus introduced entered the room. "My husband is out of the city, but will return to-morrow. His brother, Frank, is at the store, and will be home to lunch. I know very little in regard to my husband's relatives, and do not believe Frank knows much about them, he having left home when not more than ten years old."

"I do wish I was back at the Sherman House!" Agatha said to herself, the first moment she was alone. "These ladies seem very kind; but how extremely awkward I shall feel if the gentleman should not be a relative of mine, after all! They will think, and so shall I, that I have made a very great fool of myself. And even if they are my cousins, they will no doubt suppose that I came here to save my hotel bill. But I am here now, and they are making me welcome; of course, I cannot do otherwise than remain until the elder brother comes home. I do wonder if other people ever act so foolishly as I do sometimes? How father and mother would scold me!"

Frank Brown, the cousin who would be home to lunch, was an earnest young fellow, twenty-two years old, overflowing with life, and had seen just enough of the world to make him somewhat bold and self reliant.

To make sure of Frank's company to lunch, Miss Williams went down to the store soon after the visitor came in, and told him the whole story, ending with:

"She is really a very pretty girl, Frank. We are just delighted with her!"

Frank Brown had never heard of any cousin of that name; but that only made the discovery more interesting.

Having put himself through the hands of his barber and boot-emblisher, and given each part of his wardrobe a few extra touches, he ordered a cab to set him down at his door—that unusual precaution having been taken in order to bring himself into the presence of his new cousin in an unsoiled condition. Then, after giving himself a few more touches and scrutinizing glances on entering the hall, the young man marched boldly in, and having been duly announced, said:

"I am delighted to meet you cousin!"

At the same time—for the whole story may as well be told—he took her fondly and affectionately by the hand, and placing his left arm gently around her, waited a second or two, until he saw her fair blue eyes looking firmly, affectionately, and as he thought invitingly, right into his own and then gave her a cousinly kiss, not roughly or hastily, but in a very becoming and orderly way. He said, again:

"I am delighted to meet you, cousin Agatha!"

To which the young lady responded:

"And I am pleased to meet you, Cousin Frank."

The young man remained at home that day an hour longer than usual—in fact, did not return to the store until one of the clerks came for him, and then remained only long enough to answer a question or two. A little business at the Sherman House required his attention. Cousin Agatha's trunk, the check for which he had received from her, must be sent over to their house, and her name withdrawn from the books. Miss Ogden would be their guest while she remained in the city, and she had already very kindly consented to prolong her visit some two or three days.

"Well, my dear," said the elder Mr. Brown, on hearing the whole story from his wife, immediately after he came home, "this is a very comical adventure—one, however, that does not seem likely to damage any of us. The young lady is certainly not my cousin, nor in any manner related to me. I understand, however, exactly how the mistake has occurred. There was another Charles Brown, who left here about a year ago, whom I knew very well for he was also in the hardware business, and he had, as he told me, an uncle by the name of Ralph Ogden, in Rochester. We were talking one day in regard to our respective families, when he incidentally mentioned that fact, and spoke, as I remember, in very high terms of that uncle. The young lady is, of course, the daughter of that gentleman. She is now, as you say, down in the city with your sister?" "Yes; they went out together, to do a little shopping, and will soon return."

"Well, we must correct the mistake as gently as possible, and make the young lady's visit none the less pleasant to her. I will go to the store now, and return within an hour, and while I am gone, you will, of course, explain the mistake to your visitor. Meantime, I will set Frank all right in regard to the matter, and prepare him to be a little less demonstrative."

The mistake was first explained to Miss Williams by her sister, and then both ladies united making the revelation to their guest, and all were soon laughing heartily at what seemed to them a very enjoyable joke.

As for Frank, his feelings were mixed and peculiar; and our heroine also experienced a sensation that seemed like a gentle confusion, when she thought of the earnest and affectionate kiss she had already received from the young gentleman, whom she had never met before, and to whom she was in no way related.

A slightly awkward and embarrassing situation, and to get back to the formal and dignified propriety which should be observed between strangers and do so in just the right way, might possibly require more skill and tact than a girl of eighteen would be expected to possess.

"Well, Cousin Agatha, how have you enjoyed yourself since I saw you last?" was the greeting Frank gave their guest, the first time they met after the mistake was discovered.

Agatha flushed a little, but not very crimson, and managed to do her part of the programme in a way that made all parties feel as if they had found a happy and congenial friend, worth knowing and loving, even though she was not their cousin.

Mr. Charles Brown mentioned to his family, in the course of the evening, that he had learned from reliable parties that the young lady, as he had conjectured, belonged to one of the most respectable families in Rochester.

"A good and worthy girl," he added; "whose visit we must make as pleasant as possible."

And to the carrying out of that programme the whole family addressed themselves—especially Frank.

Of the mistake that brought the young lady to their house, nothing was said to friends who came in. Miss Ogden was simply introduced as a young friend from Rochester, who was paying them a visit; and all joined with them in saying how very sorry they were that her visit would terminate so soon.

Whether the cousinly kiss with which Frank Brown and Agatha Ogden greeted each other, when first meeting, was repeated at parting has never been known—unless to the young people themselves. But for some reason the acquaintance begun in that random way did not end with that visit.

On thinking over the whole matter, on her way home, Agatha came to the conclusion that it would not be best to tell any one, except father and mother, the story of her cousinly adventure; nor did she tell quite the whole story, even to them.

"A letter for you, Agatha, and from Chicago," was Mr. Ogden's remark, while distributing the mail-matter the postman had brought in, one morning, a few days after his daughter had returned. "From your cousins, perhaps."

"Have we any cousins in Chicago?" asked an older sister.

"We had some time ago," was the evasive answer which Agatha, with a sly but imploring look, prompted her father to give.

"Who is your letter from, Ag?" asked her sister. "I saw the address—a gentleman's writing."

"Please don't bother me now," replied Agatha, placing the letter in her pocket without reading.

"Just the way," said the sister, "that young ladies treat the first letters they receive from their beaux."

"After they have received as many as you have," retorted Agatha, with just a little spite in her tone, "I suppose they give the first reading to any one who is willing to perform a service of that sort!"

"A love letter, as sure as I live!" exclaimed the sister.

It is scarcely necessary to say that the letter was from Frank Brown, who managed the correspondence so cleverly that, at the end of two months, he was a welcome guest at the residence of Mr. Ralph Ogden, and the accepted lover of his daughter Agatha.

A few young friends, that sister among them, were mischievous enough to say, on the day of the wedding, that Agatha—"Ag," as they persisted in calling her most of the time—knew very well, when she called on Mr. Brown, that those people were in no way related to her, but just went on a love making adventure.

A slander, of course, and they knew it. No young lady ever made a more honest blunder, or a more lucky one; for the young man, whose first introduction was that earnest and affectionate kiss, proved to be a worthy and faithful husband. Agatha could not have found one who would have suited her better if she had looked the whole continent over.

MRS. E. H. HOUGH.

A Baby Camel.

From the New York Times.

There has been an interesting increase in the happy family of birds and beasts which is assembled around the old arsenal in Central Park. The latest comer is a young camel, which began its career of earthly troubles Saturday night. Its first experience of life was a rare one for a camel, for it found itself reposing in a heap of snow. Nevertheless, it did not pine for the hot sands of the great Sahara, which ought to have been its native heath, but proceeded to make itself as comfortable as it could until day dawned and a keeper removed the youthful quadruped to more comfortable quarters. For six hours the little infant was not permitted to draw nourishment from the natural source. The old Mrs. Camel was inclined to be somewhat ungracious toward her little one, and had to be tied up with strong ropes before she would permit the caresses of her babe. Said babe is about the size of a colt and is so ugly that if it ever catches sight of itself it will go off in a dark corner and die. It consists principally of legs. These are long, lumbersome and apparently very much in their own way. The infant camel has a back just like any other person's. There is no lump visible yet. The keeper says that the young beast will sprout a hump in the course of time, and be as proud of it as a boarding school boy with the first down on his lip. The infant's neck, moreover, is so short that it could not eat grass, if there were any to eat, without lying down. This slight inconvenience will also disappear in time, and the baby's neck will stretch out and double back on itself in the manner most approved by camels which have reached the years of discretion. This little camel, while it bears no resemblance to Artemus Ward's kangaroo and fails to jump or squeal to any pernicious extent, is nevertheless, an "amusing little cuss." Provided the weather is clear, he will make his bow to the public to-day and be on exhibition in the inclosure. He has been kept housed since his birth on account of the snow on the ground. This young animal is the third camel born in the park. His mother was born there before him, and he is therefore a true American. William A. Conklin, superintendent of the menagerie, says that none of the animals suffer from the cold weather.

A negro who had sawed some wood for a dentist found some difficulty in collecting his two dollars, but one day a bright thought struck him. Repairing to the dentist's office he asked what the charge was for extracting teeth. 'A dollar each,' said the dentist. 'Then pull out two for me.' But after examining his mouth the dentist told him that all his teeth were sound. 'Never mind—go ahead;' and after having a couple pulled the darky exclaimed: 'Now we are straight in our accounts, and I guess we'll stop so."

Dark Days Passed.

"Won't you buy a bunch of flowers for your lady?"

The gentleman to whom this question was addressed looked down into the face of the speaker, a rosy cheeked boy of eight or nine summers. The little fellow had a tiny basket on his arm, filled with bouquets such as we are wont to see in May or June. Flowers of the spring time, suggestive of the bright happy days of our childhood when we were told by the teacher that we might vote for our next May Queen. Roses there were; white and pink, moss roses, wild roses, and snowdrops; lilacs there were, too, and all made up in lovely bouquets that it needed but a glance to know that a most artistic hand had arranged these children of the spring.

"But, my boy, it is the beginning of September—where did you get these lilies and roses from?"

"They are not real flowers, sir, they are artificial. Mother and auntie make them."

The gentleman looked more astonished than before, and after a keen look at the lad, he asked:

"Where do you live, my boy?"

"Away outside the city, in a cottage. We have real flowers, too. I have a flower patch of my own, and mother lets me plant just what I please. But, wont you buy a bunch of these, sir? They are only twenty five cents, and they won't fade as soon as other flowers."

"Yes, I will buy two bunches of you, if you bring me a bouquet out of your garden to-morrow. Here is a half dollar for these and another half for the flowers you are to bring to morrow. Don't fail; I shall expect you at this hour, here in this saloon where I generally drink a cup of chocolate."

The little fellow thanked the man, and was off in a moment.

Why had the man questioned the lad so about his mother's dwelling place? He could not account to himself for it. He, who came and went every day, and drank his chocolate in silence, hardly looking up at any one, had actually held a conversation of ten minutes duration with a little boy. Soon after he left the house, forgetting to empty his cup. Well, that was something new, and the waiters noticed it and commented on it; for the gentleman had been their regular customer every day, for nearly a year, and they had never known him to speak to any one before, except to order his customary beverage, and after drinking it in silence he would lay his money down and walk out as moodily as he had entered.

The next day after his conversation with the boy, the man came a half hour sooner than was his wont, and seemed excited. Every now and then he glanced toward the door, as if his life depended on the flowers that he was expecting. He had not long to wait, for the little fellow had evidently been as anxious to bring them in time as the gentleman to get them. After a glance at the beautiful bouquet, he said, more to himself than to the child, who seemed to be expecting a word of praise for his quickness or beauty of his pets.

"I thought I was mistaken. No one knew how to arrange a bouquet like her. And the resemblance of this child! My God! could I, after all, have been deceived? It cannot be; I must have certainty." Rising hastily from his chair, he grasped the astonished child by the hand and said: "Come, show me where your mother lives, my boy, I must see her."

"But mother never sees company, sir. She only lets the old gardener come into our house to tend to the flowers."

"But I must see her. Stop! What is your mother's name? I might have thought of that before."

"Mrs. Norton, sir."

A shade of disappointment flashed over the man's face, but only for a moment.

"I must see your mother, child, else your face, too, deceives me."

The lad made no more objections. "If we take the shortest roadhome," he said, "we must go through the marked house here, and then the other streets will soon be passed."

The walk was quite long, and especially so to the gentleman, who was traveling it for the first time. At last they came in sight of a little cottage surrounded by a garden. The house could hardly be seen, so thickly was it covered by vines and creeping plants. But one glance showed an observer that no unskillful hand had been at work, and an uncommon mind must have planned the whole, to make the small place so complete a paradise. Opening the gate, the child led the way up the gravel walk toward the house. On the portico, which was not only concealed by vines, but by two splendid chestnut trees, he was received by a voice of surprise.

"Why, Harvey! back already? and your flowers you've brought back. What has happened?"

"Mother, dear, don't be angry. The gentleman who wanted my flowers said he must see you. Here he is."

As he said this, the boy pointed to the gentleman, who was just stepping on the portico. He had stopped at the sound of her voice, and then as if about to faint; but, rallying himself, he walked on until he confronted Harvey's mother. The lady looked at the gentleman in surprise, and was about to turn away; but one more look and then a cry, and she would have sunk to the floor had not the strong arm of the man caught her. But she did not faint; she was only overcome for the moment.

"Harvey, dearest, is it you or do I dream?"

"Yes, my beloved wife, it is I. After a whole year's search I have at last found you, through what I know as our boy, whom I left as a babe." After mutual explanations, the gentleman said: "Ah those were bad days, when I had to leave you and our boy so destitute through the failure of that bank."

"Did our creditors seize all?"

"Yes, all; except our jewels."

"But why did you let me mourn you as dead all these years? Tell me that first."

"Darling, I wrote so often and received no reply. Not a word of encouragement in these weary years of turmoil and trial. You know I left for China. I wrote from every port where we stopped and with every returning ship or steamer I sent you letters. After my arrival at Pekin, I wrote to you again to take heart, as I had the good fortune to get a situation in an American tea-house, and would, as I did send you half of my salary which was to be deposited semi-annually at the bank of New York."

"It must be there yet, then, for I have never drawn any, nor heard a word from you and mourned you as dead, as you can see by my wearing widow's weeds yet. Then I turned my jewels into money, I labored hard, for more than a year at a millinery store, sister taking care of our boy. That was the hardest of all, to be separated from him so much. But I did it, and after I had learned the art of flower making, I got along very comfortably, for sister Ruth assisted me so faithfully. At last I had accumulated enough to lease this little place which was at that time a perfect wilderness and you see what four years of patient toil have made of it. We had ample time to make our artificial flowers, and for more than a year, Harvey has been in the habit of selling them for us. Yesterday I arranged some bunches as I used to do for you, "and gave them to Harvey to sell."

"And it has been the means of my finding you; for I had made inquiries for you everywhere, and no one knew of your whereabouts. Thank the kind Lord who aided me. We will purchase this place, for I have ample means and will forget in our future happiness the dark days that are past."

How a Yankee Utilized a Cold Snap.

Many years ago a Pittsburg iron firm purchased a lot of condemned bombshells for old iron. The shells were not loaded, but in order to melt them it was necessary that they should be broken up. This was attempted with sledge hammers, but the laborers made but little progress and it was finally given up as a bad job. One day a long, slim Yankee came along and said:

"I understand you have a job for a man here."

"Yes," was the reply; "we want that pile of bombs out there broken."

"How much will you pay?"

"We will give you a fip apiece (six and a quarter cents) if you will agree to break them all."

"I'll take the contract," answered the Yankee. The day was a cold one, and the thermometer down to zero. The man immediately went to work, but disdained to take the large sledge hammer which was offered him. The Yankee laid every bomb out on the ground with the hold up. He procured a bucket and filled them all with water. Then he came into the house, made out his bill, and said he would call around in the morning for the money. Every one was much mystified, but in the morning their astonishment was great. The water had frozen during the night and in the morning a pile of scrap iron was found, as the freezing water had broken every bomb into at least a dozen pieces.

A Theory Upset.

The theory that photographs cannot be taken at night was upset the other day when a thief was marched up to the bar in a justice's court.

Judge—"What is the charge?"

Officer—"Stealing."

Judge—"Stealing what?"

Officer—"Stealing photographs."

Judge—"When did he steal them?"

Officer—"Last night, yer honor."

Judge—"I will discharge the prisoner, for I know that thousands of dollars have been wasted in the attempt to discover a process whereby pictures could be taken at night. The prisoner may go."—Carl Pretzel's Weekly.

A Supposed Elopement.

EASTON, April 17.—Amelia Wells, aged seventeen, a gypsy girl of prepossessing appearance, ran away from her parents, near here, yesterday and took a train for Philadelphia. She wore a large black felt hat trimmed with flowers, a red plaid shawl and dress to match, two large plain gold rings on one of her fingers, a gold neck-chain and a chain of beads. She had a fresh cut on the palm of one hand near the thumb. Her parents think she has eloped with her lover, who is supposed to live in Philadelphia. A detective has been employed to find her.

Must be Held as Agreed.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—James Mooney, president of the American National Land League, has telegraphed to the secretary of the Central Union, of Philadelphia, that the postponement of the national convention to be held in this city is out of the question; that it will take place according to official call, and that everything indicates that the convention will be a great success.

The Liquor Interests Ahead in Illinois.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Throughout Illinois yesterday 48 cities and towns voted on the liquor question in balloting for municipal officers. Seventeen declared for prohibition or anti-license; 31 declared for license, and of the latter six were for high license. Four towns ignored the saloon question and voted on straight political issues.

Depart from St. Augustine.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 18.—President Arthur left St. Augustine this morning for this city on the steamer Tallapoosa. The Tallapoosa was sighted off Tybee and the board of aldermen and leading merchants went down in a tug to meet the distinguished party.

Indefinitely Postponed.

DOVER, Del., April 17.—The house this afternoon indefinitely postponed the senate bill providing for the submission of the question of license or prohibition to a popular vote.

The Handy Telephone.

The other day an individual who seemed to be somewhat under the influence of drink entered a business place and inquired if they had a telephone. Being answered in the affirmative he laid down ten cents and said:

"Please talk for me, as my voice is very husky this morning. Please call up Mrs. McGeorge."

"Has she a telephone?"

"No."

"Then I can't call her."

"That's so. Well, call up Snyder's grocery. That's within six blocks of my house."

The grocery was soon connected, and the man said:

"Ask the grocer if he knows McGeorge."

"No," was the answer.

"Ask him if he would just as soon run over to N.—Twentieth street.

"No," came again.

"Well, tell him to pay some boys two shillings to go to that number and ask my wife if she told me we would want another gallon of vinegar by next week Friday, and she can telephone from somewhere to the postoffice and the postmaster will send some out to hunt me up. Awful handy things, these telephones."

Medical.

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations are without. Hence, to cure the disease the Cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just principles. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealthy Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of imposters, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

Oh, My Back!

That's a common expression and has a world of meaning. How much suffering is summed up in it.

The singular thing about it is, that pain in the back is occasioned by so many things. May be caused by kidney disease, liver complaint, consumption, cold, rheumatism, dyspepsia, overwork, nervous debility, &c.

Whatever the cause, don't neglect it. Something is wrong and needs prompt attention. No medicine has yet been discovered that will so quickly and surely cure such diseases as BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, and it does this by commencing at the foundation, and making the blood pure and rich.

Logansport, Ind. Dec. 1, 1880.

For a long time I have been a sufferer from stomach and kidney disease. My appetite was very poor and the very small amount I did eat disagreed with me. I was annoyed very much from non-retention of urine. I tried many remedies with no success, until I used Brown's Iron Bitters. Since I used that my stomach does not bother me any. My appetite is simply immense. My kidney trouble is no more, and my general health is such, that I feel like a new man. After the use of Brown's Iron Bitters for one month, I have gained twenty pounds in weight. O. B. SARGENT.

Leading physicians and clergymen use and recommend BROWN'S IRON BITTERS. It has cured others suffering as you are, and it will cure you.

Gradually Supplanted by a Better Article, Certain Old Things are Done Away.

In the general reception room of the Western Union Telegraph building on Broadway, New York, are exhibited the coarse, crude and clumsy instruments of the infancy of the telegraph. They are only relics now. More perfect machinery has superseded them.

Years ago what is now styled the old-fashioned porous plaster did some good service. There was then nothing better of the kind. Now all that is changed. Science and study have gone deeper into the secrets of medicine and produced BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER, which embodies all the excellencies thus far possible in an external remedy. The old plasters were slow—the Capcine is rapid; they were uncertain—the Capcine is sure. Cheaper articles bear similar names. Be careful, therefore, that some thrifty druggist does not deceive you. In the centre of the genuine is cut the word CAPCINE. Price 25 cents.

Wages of Workmen.

CHICAGO, April 19.—The striking brick-layers will parade this evening and will be joined by other local unions in a mass meeting on the lake front. The general situation is unchanged, save it is declared the married men among the strikers are being compelled to accept the terms of the builders and are driven to it by the long lock-out.

The cigar makers have formally notified their employers of their intention to strike on May 7 against certain firms in this city who have not acceded to their demands. The firms mentioned assert that they are waiting the action which will be taken by the New York manufacturers on May 1.

PITTSBURG, April 19.—The journeymen plasterers here met to-night and decided to demand an increase in wages from $3 to $3.50 per day after May. They say they will strike if refused.

The places of a large number of the striking tanners were filled with non-union men to-day. To-night the strikers gathered around the tanneries and indulged in riotous demonstrations. The police prevented any serious outbreak. No arrests were made.

GORE, O., April 19—A general strike of the coal miners of the Hocking Valley began to-day against a reduction of wages amounting to thirty cents a day.

The Akron iron company has closed its works.

A Terrific Conflagration.

DELHI, April 20.—An extensive conflagration has occurred in this city. Two thousand houses have been destroyed and a great number of families are destitute and homeless.

[Delhi, the scene of the great fire, is a famous city of India, and was the scene of the ceremonies attending the official announcement of Queen Victoria's assumption of the title of Empress of India It was formerly the capital of the Mogul empire, and the largest city of Hindostan, having a population of 2,000,000. The modern city, founded by Shah Jehan in 1631, has a circumference of seven miles, and is surrounded by walls of red sandstone thirty feet high. The palace of the Great Mogul, built by Shah Jehan at Delhi, is the most magnificent in India. Another remarkable edifice is the Jamma mosque, of white marble and red sandstone.]

A Startling Story from Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 20.—The American express agents in this city to-day discovered a package of dynamite weighing twenty five pounds, which was shipped from Newark, N. J., by Adams express and turned over to the American company on Thursday at Chicago. It bore no mark to indicate its deadly contents, but was directed to the Milwaukee cement company. When delivered by the express driver the cement company's employes said it was dynamite and the package was returned to the express office and lay on the sidewalk till 1 o'clock. The cement company claim it is only a lot of fuses. An expert says the amount was sufficient to blow the express train to atoms or demolish a whole block. The package is eighteen inches long, twelve inches wide and eight inches deep.

New Jersey Greenbackers.

TRENTON, N. J., April 19.—The state central committee of the national greenback party met here to-day and after discussing the advisability of co-operating with the anti-monopolists, grangers and labor reformers, adjourned to May 30, when the time and place for holding the state gubernatorial convention will be fixed.

The President in Excellent Health.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Arthur arrived at 9.30 to-night and his appearance as he stepped from the train stamped the sensational reports concerning his health as the wildest exaggerations. In reply to an allusion to his health by the attorney general, the president replied: "I haven't been sick a day. I've enjoyed the trip very much." To inquiries of young Allan Arthur and Major Pruden, who were the next to shake hands with the president, he reported, "quite well."

Secretary Frelinghuysen, who went to the white house with the president, said to an Associated Press reporter that he thought the president was looking unusually well, and added that the latter had told him his health was good and that he had enjoyed his trip very much: that he had not had the least indication of a chill since he left Washington and, with the exception of a slight attack of indigestion, had been perfectly well. The president, he said, told him that he had spent one day on the Tallapoosa at Savannah instead of going ashore, because he preferred to spend the day quietly in reading.

Private Secretary Phillips said to-night the stories telegraphed from the south about the president's condition were without foundation, except that the president had a slight attack of indigestion Thursday night. The president had not had a chill, the bilious colic nor "perceptible rigor," and there had been no blistering, no morphine injection and no nights spent in watchfulness by the president's sick bed.

Dr. Lincoln, the president's physician, also denies the story that he had been telegraphed for.

Pipe Mill Shut Down.

READING, Pa., April 20.—The employes of the pipe mill of the Reading iron company held a meeting to-night and appointed a committee to wait upon the proprietors to demand a restoration of the wages paid previous to last August The company replied that their request could not be granted and that the mills would be closed for the present. Superintendent Wolfe stated to-night that there was not work enough on hand to keep the men employed. The sheet and rolling mills are also idle. The nail factory of the company has been out of operation for two years. The furnaces, foundry and forge are running full blast.

Another Cave-in.

ASHLAND, Pa., April 19.—Considerable excitement was caused here to-day by the settling of the surface over one of the gangways of Tunnell colliery, which it was feared would cause a row of houses situated in that vicinity to sink. Late yesterday afternoon one of the houses began to settle and early this morning disappeared entirely. The authorities had notified the occupants of the houses of their danger and all removed some weeks ago. The remaining houses are being removed. The trouble was caused by the robbing of pillars.

A Change of Venue Granted.

CHICAGO, Illinois, April 20.—The case of Jere Dunn, charged with the murder of James Elliott, was called in the criminal court this morning. The court room was well filled. Emery A. Storrs and Daniel Munn appeared for the defense and applied for a change of venue on the ground that Judge Jameson was prejudiced. After a brief consultation with States Attorney Mills it was announced that the council had agreed that the case be heard by Judge Smith and a change of venue granted in accordance with this arrangement.

A Remarkable Case.

READING, Pa., April 19.—Miss Dora Heele, aged 17 years, bled to death through the bursting of an artery in her right arm above the elbow, where the bone had grown until it became over 2½ feet in circumference and weighed 42 pounds. Last spring she visited Jefferson college, when Dr. Gross told her the only remedy was the amputation of her arm, but she said she would rather die than submit to the operation. The bone was enlarging for two years. She was unable to walk the last three weeks.

Cowboys on a Strike.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 19.—Between two and three hundred cowboys, on a ranch in the 'Pan Handle,' are on a strike for an increase from $30 to $50 a month and board The men are well armed and threaten to kill any new men, fire the ranch and work general trouble. WASHINGTON, April 18.—The count of money and securities in the treasury was completed to-day. A detailed report will be made to the secretary in a few days. An excess of three cents in favor of Gilfillan was found.

Death of a Soldier.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22.—Soleiman Pacha, well known for his defense of the Shipka Pass during the late war between Russia and Turkey, is dead.

Suleiman Pacha, the Ney of the Ottomans, in his day, was one of the marked military men of the Porte's army. Educated with more care than the general run of pachas, he entered the army equipped as completely as any of his contemporaries in the West. Born in Constantinople in 1840, he was, from the first, designed for the army and passed all his boyhood in a military school under French masters. He was attached as lieutenant to the suite of Abdul Aziz and rose steadily until 1864, when he was sent in command of the Turkish forces in Crete. On his return from that massacreing campaign he was made chief of a military accademy and in 1877 sent in command of a division to suppress the Montenegrin revolt. He made short work of the rebels at first, but received a decisive repulse in the end. On the breaking out of the Russo-Turkish war he was given high command, and at first justified the high hopes entertained of his leadership.

Legislative Doings.

HARRISBURG, April 20.—The house to-day defeated the proposed constitutional prohibition amendment by a vote of 27 to 151.

In the senate the bill to prohibit any persons from treating other persons to spirituous, vinous, malt or brewed liquors was passed on third reading.

Among the bills on second reading in the house this afternoon were the following: "Providing for the keeping in repair of roads and bridges of the state. It provides for three road commissions in each township with power to assess not exceeding five mills for road purposes." Fixing the compensation of assessors at two dollars per day.

The senate bill to prohibit the granting of free passes was reported favorably with an amendment allowing the issuance of excursion and commutation tickets at special rates.

Desperadoes Raiding Towns.

ATCHISON, Kan., April 22.—The notorious Barlow brothers, four desperadoes who have created a reign of terror throughout the neighboring country by their deeds of daring and violence, on Wednesday suddenly appeared in Normansville and made an attempt to rob the postoffice. They met with a determined resistance on the part of Postmaster Normilie, and, after shooting his wife in the head, they retreated. Mrs. Normilie's wound is a severe one, but a fatal result is not anticipated. All the towns on the line of the Missouri-Pacific railroad between here and Hiawatha have been raided by the desperadoes. The feeling against them is exceedingly bitter, and if captured they will most certainly be lynched.

An Artist's Suicide.

CHICAGO, April 20.—Jump, a crayon artist known widely over the country, committed suicide this evening in the office of the J. B. Jeffreys Show Printing Company, while under the influence of liquor. The deceased drew the series of sketches of the colored twins, so popular, which begins with the "Introduction," representing two colored youths introduced to twin colored young maidens. The series consisted of "The Introduction," "The Duel," "The Wedding," "The Wedding Trip," and "Coming Events Cast their Shadow Before." The suicider at one time, it is said, was in the employ of the Harpers.

Heavy Storm in the West.

ST. PAUL, April 22.—3 a. m.—Telegraphic communication with the northwest is almost entirely cut off. The indications are that a severe wind and rain storm is prevailing all through the territory. The Missouri and smaller rivers are high at present and if the storm lasts destructive floods must follow. The storm prevents any positive information being received. The river is rising slowly and the chances are that West St. Paul will be inundated.

Nihilists found Guilty.

ST PETERSBURG, April 19.—The trial of eighteen prominent nihilists ended here to-day and resulted in the conviction of all the prisoners. Six were condemned to death, two to life-long servitude and the remainder to terms of imprisonment varying from 15 to 20 years.

Men and Events at Stormstown and Vicinity.

STORMSTOWN, April 23, '83.

Our respected friend, Mr. S. D. Eves, of Half Moon, is seriously ill with pneumonia. His three physicians do not speak of his condition at all hopefully, but if skill can restore him to health he will soon be entirely well.

The residents of Tow Hill are pleased to welcome the new mine boss, Mr. Henry Milbur. He seems to be very capable and efficient and is evidently the right man in the right place. We believe the employes can put entire dependence in him.

We are glad to note that George Everhart is recovering from his recent injuries in being thrown from the back of a mule under a passing car. It was feared at first that his injuries were fatal.

Mr. William Wagner, who had the misfortune to break his forefinger a couple of weeks ago, is now able to use the injured member again.

Mr. I. Pierpont shipped 127 tons of ore one day last week.

George Gates, who has before this figured in these columns for inhuman treatment to his grandchild, endeavored to again obtain possession of the little one last week, but the kind offices of the law again awarded her to more merciful protectors.

A Summer Attire.

Even a town puts on a summer attire and none more distinctively so than Bellefonte. The grass grown banks of the streams, the verdure clad hills and the handsomely displayed dresses of the female population speak louder than ever that summer is nigh. Bright garnet seems the prevailing color for ladies' costumes this spring and in several instances we have observed them made of rich velvet making their wearers look very pretty and distingue. Of course this color is just a sign that the ladies are ready to change their sombre black attire for apparel of a more cheerful and lively hue, and only a month or so will intervene ere they will come forth in their lawns and other equally light and airy fabrics. Nature rejoices in this transformation. The bird sings sweetly and the bee buzzes cheerfully. Even the frog endeavors to vocalize during the evening hours. Who does not rejoice that this change is coming earlier than usual this year and will continue the same at least five months in the future.

—Remember, the next visit to town should include a generous purchase of Harry Teats & Co.'s groceries.

—The sermon delivered by Rev. John Hewitt in the Episcopal church on Sunday morning was greatly admired for its beauty and impressiveness. It had particular reference to woman's work in the affairs of the church. The speaker instanced the condescending reliance of our Saviour upon the aid of woman in His work on earth and the part she has taken in perpetuating the church. He said that a few devoted women had been instrumental in founding the parish in this place. He paid beautiful tributes to the memory of two devoted women who have passed away from their work in the church militant to the church triumphant—Mrs. Adeline Miles Harris and Mrs. Anna Offington Natt. His remarks were replete with striking incidents of woman's heroism and devotion.

—The inducement to buy Harry Green's cigars is caused by their excellence.

—Graham & Son have an advertisement in another column. They advertise the Hanan & Son shoe which is a very superior manufacture and which the people of this town and county should inspect before looking elsewhere. This firm are very enterprising in their recent business operations and deserve as they should receive a large patronage. Their establishment is on the corner of High and Allegheny streets in the room formerly occupied by the Centre County Banking Company.

—It is said that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will build a new depot on the site of the present one. The freight depot will be erected on a lot owned by them below town.

—Strangers will find Harry Teats & Co.'s store an excellent place to buy groceries.

—The Centre Democrat thinks it sees the hand of a Bellefonte attorney in an article which recently appeared in this paper. The imaginative powers of the Democrat man have not, we are pleased to note, been impaired to any extent by his recent slight illness.

The Penal Code in Bellefonte.

The new Chief Burgess has concluded to enforce the law in regard to the closing of the cigar stores on the Sabbath, and has served notice to that effect upon the proprietors of these places about town. Users of the weed will therefore be obliged to supply themselves with smoking material for Sunday's comfort on Saturday night. While we fail to see the harm in a man entering a store to purchase a cigar on the Sabbath, it is not our intention to criticise this action of the Burgess because we choose to believe that he is acting from honest motives and a desire to fulfill the duties of his office. If he has submitted to dictation and allowed himself to be influenced through the importunities of that class who would, if opportunity permitted, restrict the Sunday liberties of non-church-goers, then he puts himself in a censurable position. The sentiment of the community is divided on this question, those who have been in the habit of buying on Sunday regarding it as an encroachment upon their liberties and a very unnecessary proceeding. It is a matter which rests entirely with the people. If they are in favor of suppressing the Sunday cigar trade they will endorse this action of the Chief Burgess by re-electing him should he be a candidate another year; if opposed to the measure they will speak out with their votes and reject him at the polls.

A Sad Case of Insanity.

Mr. Simler Cowher, of Port Matilda, whose mind has recently been seriously affected, was brought to this place on the 10 a. m. train on Monday. After an examination during the present term of court to discover the true condition of his mind he will probably be sent to the insane asylum

Mr. Cowher's case is very sad. For a long time he sat up night and day at the bedside of his sick wife and watched over her with the most careful attention. She died about six weeks ago. Still other unhappy events have occurred to mar his earthly hopes. These culminated in his temporary derangement of mind. On Sunday he entered the house of a Mr. Jones at Port Matilda and had to be violently ejected. We hope that with proper care his mind may recover its balance. He imagines himself to be some religious character.

Mr. Cowher has always been known as an upright, honest citizen and his neighbors and friends will extremely regret his misfortune.

—The Buffalo Run Railroad, unless we are greatly mistaken, is being rushed forward to completion very rapidly and is among the most promising roads now building. It is one of those roads which will not have the effect of interfering with the traffic of lines now in operation, but will open up new traffic of its own and thus increase the amount of trade in this vicinity. Hundreds of Italians are now engaged upon it and as the line is comparatively short it will not require many months to complete it. The company should begin the erection of depot buildings in Bellefonte. When that is done the borough will indeed experience the quickening effect of new life.

Gatesburg Gossip.

GATESBURG, April 18, '83.

Spring is here, grain fields look fine and there is promise of a beautiful harvest.

Mr. John Rider, we regret to learn, is confined to the house with a swollen arm which gives him much pain.

Mr. William Masterson is dangerously ill with bilious fever and congestion of the brain. Dr. William Biglow is attending him. CATO.

—The Pennsylvania railroad company is experimenting with a safety heating stove for passenger cars, known as the Condon heater. A pan in which to hold water forms the base of the heater, and it is supposed that in case of an accident which overturns the car the water will immediately extinguish the fire.

—Have you seen the price list of cheap groceries issued by Sechler, the grocer? Well, he has reduced the price of groceries to the lowest possible level. Sugars, teas, coffees, canned, dried and preserved fruits and jellies can be obtained for a remarkably low price. Remember, the place is Sechler's store, in Bush House Row.

—Mrs. Bella M. Sturgis, daughter of Daniel Musser, Esq., of Millheim, died at her home in Lewisburg, on Saturday morning, April 14. She was 23 years of age.

—Matthew Riddle, a prominent citizen of Marsh Creek, expired at his home in that place on Wednesday evening of last week.

Horses With the Spring Fever.

One day last week the horses in this vicinity seemed to be possessed of a mania for falling down and getting themselves inextricably mixed up with the traces and other parts of the conveyances which they pulled behind them. A horse that was attached to one of John Bartruff's new railroad carts was the first to exhibit himself to the world in this specialty. He balked for a short period and then started forward so quickly as to upset the cart and its occupant. The second instance of this character occurred not far from town where for some reason the horse, which was attached to a buggy, became unmanageable. After performing several feats of an indescribable character he laid down in the road and got so mixed up with the traces and lines that it was impossible for some time to lift the animal to an upright position again. But it was at last accomplished without injury to anybody. We shall attribute it to an attack of spring fever.

Sudden Death of Mr. John Rockey.

Mr. John Rockey, a gentleman aged about 60 years, living near Nye Ore Bank, over a mile from Boiling Spring, expired suddenly on Wednesday evening, the 18th, from heart disease.

Early in the evening he started out in a conveyance with his gardener, to take the latter home after his day's work. Mr. R. then returned home, apparently as well as usual. About 9 o'clock he was found lying in the road with his feet resting on the shafts of the vehicle. He had evidently fallen forward and died immediately. The deceased leaves five daughters and a son. Of him it is said that he was an excellent citizen, as honest as the day is long and his death will be sincerely mourned.

The funeral services were held on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

—Mr. Cal. Lose, the well-known liveryman, is now the proprietor of the livery stables in the alley between Allegheny and Spring streets, in the rear of the Bee Hive dry goods stores. He runs a very nice carriage to every passenger train and will take passengers from any part of town to the train, or from the train to any part of town. He also has conveyances and horses to hire. Those who want to take a ride should give him a call.

—John Moore, of Bellefonte; his son Charley, aged eleven, and two younger children, Bernice and Aurora, aged nine and seven years, are preparing to render an opera called "The Golden Ball." The father has trained his children, written the words and music of the opera, painted the scenery and prepared the costumes. The children are natural actors and have beautiful voices.—Phil'a Press.

Mr. Moore dramatized the production from a nursery tale entitled "The Frog's Bride" and the children composed all the music.

—Since the Cummings House, located on Bishop street, has been under the superintendence of Mr. E. Brown, of Madisonburg, it has met with surprising prosperity. The register of names is already very large. Mr. Brown is making improvements which will render it a very pleasant place to spend a few days and we hope to hear of his continued success.

—Have you been to the bargain sale at the Bee Hive? If not, get there as soon as you can. 15-10tf

—Eli Perkins' lecture will be given in the Court House Saturday evening, April 28. The proceeds will be devoted to the library fund of the Y. M. C. A. The inimitable humorist should attract a large audience as a long time has elapsed since our citizens have had the opportunity to listen to a lecture of that character.

—Curwensville had a fire on Wednesday night which destroyed the church and dwelling of a colored preacher named Pratt.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us, seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by indigestion, constipation, dizziness, loss of appetite, coming up of the food, yellow skin, when for 75 cents we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by John Harris.

A young politician explained the tattered condition of his trousers to his father by stating that he was sitting under an apple tree enjoying himself, when a farmer's dog came along and contested his seat.

The peculiar action on the kidneys and urinary organs of asparagus is frequently noticed during the season. Prof. Benson recently proved in the case of the Emperor William and others that in combination with malt and quinine it is an absolute specific for diseases of the liver, kidneys and urinary organs. His method has been adopted by the Malt Bitters Company, and this great German food is now composed of malt, hops, quinine bark and asparagus.—Medical Times.

There is nothing now in the way of taking trout in Massachusetts but the ice, the fact that angle-worms are frozen in, and the lack of the trout.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup, and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without parallel in the history of medicine. THE LATEST NEWS.

An April Storm.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 15.—A special to the Gazette from Ozark, Ark., says: Shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning a disastrous tornado struck White Oaks station, on the Little Rock and Fort Smith railroad, ten miles west of this place, from the southwest. The sides of the mountains, which before the storm were covered with trees, now show none standing, even the oaks being snapped in twain like pipe-stems. A hail storm followed and lasted until the ground was covered with ice. Many of the stones were nearly as large as hen's eggs. F. H. Piser, postmaster, lost his store and residence and probably most of the mail. Three hundred dollars in currency was also scattered by the winds, $89 being found. Mr. Piser was badly injured about the spine. L. H. R. Wallace's house, stables and store, occupied by J. E. Cox, were leveled, as were also the residence of J. C. McMurray and all others at that place. The path of the storm averaged three miles in width. It came from south of the river at a point near White Oaks. The telegraph wire was blown down for nearly four miles, and no fences can be seen anywhere. Trees two and three feet in diameter were uprooted, broken and twisted like twigs. One tree, more than two feet thick, lay on the railroad track, the iron rail beneath being broken into pieces. Pile after pile of green railroad ties were found blown around as if they had been matches. A carload of lumber was emptied, the side stakes being broken off short. Reports of destruction of property and loss of life come from every direction. Thomas E. Ross and wife and Wm. Herron, residing one mile north of here, were fatally injured and their houses were swept away. W. E. McCain, David Hall, John Brasure and Wallace all lost their houses. Wallace's was a one story and a half log house, the upper half being carried away. William Hann and Zach Harper also lost all their buildings. The Union church and schoolhouse, a mile northwest of here, are in ruins. Daniel Wade lost everything in his house. There is only one building of any kind left standing—Coles' section house—which was not squarely in the track of the storm. At Gay's Mill, two miles west, one small residence is all that remains standing. F. J. Lewis' house and a half-dozen others are in ruins. A storm of such magnitude was never before known here. The tornado reached Conway, Faulkner county, on the same railway, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon from the northeast. Nobody was killed, but several persons were badly injured.

Hanlan and Ross to Row.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Hanlan, the oarsman, had just returned from a five-mile spin up the Potomac this afternoon when your correspondent met him and was shown a letter from Ogdensburg, N. Y., in which the champion was guaranteed $2,000 for a race with Wallace Ross in the middle of July of this year. Hanlan promptly telegraphed his acceptance of the offer and instructed those having the matter in charge to notify Ross to that effect. He said that both men would also have to deposit $1,000 each, for the race was a match one between themselves and had only been delayed until a purse was guaranteed in some locality. The value of the stake will therefore be $4,000. As to the progress made in training since his arrival here three weeks ago, Hanlan said that he had reduced himself ten pounds and proposed to go but five pounds lower.

Cruelty to Animals.

CINCINNATI, April 15.—The society for the prevention of cruelty to animals gained an important case yesterday in the police court. The society had caused the arrest of several persons for shooting live pigeons at a tournament. A test case was made of one of the persons arrested and a demurrer was filed. Judge Higley decided that the word "animal" in the statute included every living dumb creature, and that the words "torture" and "cruelty" included every act of omission or neglect whereby unnecessary physical pain or suffering is caused or permitted.

Fatal Quarrels.

GALVESTON, Tex., April 15.—A special to the News from Jacksboro says: During a quarrel between Joseph Blackberry and James Wyrick yesterday afternoon the latter was shot and killed.

Another special to the same paper from Jacksboro says: Yesterday John Green, Jr., shot and instantly killed his uncle, Joseph Winchester. Winchester drew a knife and was advancing on Green when the latter fired. The affray was an old grudge.

Fatal Shooting in Nashville.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 14.—George Simpson, son of Dr. Simpson, got into a quarrel to-night with Reuben Kigert, colored, and shot Kigert in the arm. Kigert returned the fire, shooting Simpson through the right lung. Simpson staggered across the street and back and fell dead. Kigert gave himself up. Kigert and his friends claim that the killing was in self-defense. Simpson had just returned from Arkansas.

Desperate Convicts.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning Sheriff Geo. B. Ersler, of Carlisle, with five deputies, alighted from the cars at Broad Street station, having in custody six burglars and highwaymen. The prisoners were en route for the eastern penitentiary. They were James Stevenson, sentenced for one year; Perry Singleton, colored, five years; John Johnson, colored, five years; Edward Butler, colored, one year; M. K. Wood, one year, and William Hughes, four years. The prisoners were handcuffed in pairs. It was at first proposed to take the Fifteenth street cars and pass out Fairmount avenue to the prison, but the prisoners preferred to walk and the sheriff decided to grant their desire. Nothing of note occurred until the singular procession reached Twenty-first and Wallace streets, almost within the shadow of Cherry hill, when the prisoners, as if by a preconcerted plan, made a sudden attack upon their custodians. With a uniform movement each pair raised their manacled hands and dealt the officers a terrible blow with the iron rings. Finally, when it seemed as though the desperate prisoners would effect their escape, Lieutenant Jordan, of the Ninth district, and Officer Supplee appeared on the scene. Dashing in among the convicts the rescuers knocked them right and left, and soon had them in subjection. Seeing, at last, that further resistance was useless, they voluntarily surrendered and quietly gave themselves up. When the prisoners reached the penitentiary another attack was made upon the officers. The presence, however, of Warden Cassidy's well-disciplined assistants soon quelled the disturbance. Ersler was severely cut and bruised about the head and his left eye was almost closed. All of his deputies sustained more or less damage.

Bills in the Senate.

HARRISBURG, April 18.—The afternoon session of the senate was for the consideration of bills on second reading. The following, among others, were passed: Making general election day a legal holiday; repealing the act of 1800 requiring owners of ground to enclose them with fences; preventing the consolidation of competing pipe lines from the transportation of oil. A bill was introduced to allow railroads to change their routes.

Appropriation bills on second reading were considered in the house. The following were passed: Harrisburg hospital, $5,000; erection of a hospital at Connellsville, Fayette county, for sick and wounded miners, railroaders and others; Western penitentiary, $81,850; Reynolds' monument appropriation, $5,000; Meadville City hospital, $5,000; Home for friendless, Erie, $5,000; women's hospital, Philadelphia, $7,500; children's southern home, Philadelphia, $10,000; State board of agriculture, $7,800; Pittsburg and Allegheny home for the friendless, $10,000; Reading hospital, $20,000; Home hospital, Erie, $10,000; western Pennsylvania hospital, Pittsburg, $60,000; Pittsburg free dispensary, $10,000; Williamsport hospital, $8,000.

The recorder bill, which passed the senate this morning, came up for concurrence in amendments but the motion to concur was defeated by a vote of 84 to 67.

Railroad News.

BOSTON, April 18.—The Transcript says: Charles E. Perkins, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, has been in conference most of the day at the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy offices, with Fred L. Ames representing the Hannibal and St. Joe railroad company. At one time word came that a purchase had actually been effected, and it probably has been, save in the arranging of papers and some minor details, although not officially announced. The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad Company will guarantee all bonds of the Hannibal and St Joe company and purchase the preferred stock at par with its 3 per cent. debenture bonds and common stock at $42, the price paid Mr. John R. Duff, with six per cent. interest since the date of that purchase. The payment for this also to be made in 5 per cent. bonds.

Broke Up in a Row.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—It was expected that Herr John Most would meet the delegates of the federation of labor at their hall last night for the purpose of an interchange of views on the labor question. This meeting did not take place. Herr Most waited at his hotel to be sent for but it appears that a stormy debate took place in the federation, starting from the book binders union, some expressing fears that questions of dynamite and violence might be brought up should such a meeting take place. The discussion ended in a disruption caused by the outspoken expressions of know-nothingism, Herr Most being a German and the federation of labor being about equally divided between native born and foreigners.

Two Cent Revenue Stamps.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The commissioner of internal revenue has been considering the practicability of the redemption and return after July 1 of checks and drafts unprinted with the two cent revenue stamps. He has finally decided to return them when desired with the word "redeemed" stamped upon each check. This will enable banks and bankers to use the stamped checks after their redemption.

State Legislation.

HARRISBURG, April 17.—The house this afternoon passed a number of bills finally. Among them the following: Providing for the licensing of bottlers of malt liquors; a senate bill abolishing the office of collector of delinquent taxes in cities of the first class; senate bill respecting telegraph, telephone and other wire and cables for electrical purposes. The bill to secure to laborers engaged in and about coal mines and manufacturers of iron and steel payment of wages at regular intervals and in lawful money was being discussed when the house adjourned until evening.

The house, at the evening session, amended the laborers' wages bill and laid it over.

A supplement to an act to prevent vexatious foreign attachments, etc., passed finally. It provides that on any attachment, etc., issued out of any court of record if the garnishee shall be found to have in his possession or control no real or personal property of defendant nor to owe him any debit, the garnishee shall be entitled to receive from plaintiff.

The bill authorizing the acquisition of roads, highways and turnpikes by the several counties and abolition of tolls was under discussion when the house adjourned.

Small-pox in Scranton.

SCRANTON, Pa., April 17.—Small-pox has gained ground rapidly the past week in the mining villages between this city and Carbondale. In Dickson City six deaths occurred and several families report new cases, and at Oliphant three deaths occurred on Friday and Saturday, and seven new cases have been reported. The burgess of Dunmore has ordered the stoppage of all travel between that place and the villages to the north of it, until the epidemic is over. The schools in Oliphant, Dickson City, Throop and Blakely have been closed and the authorities have ordered public vaccination.

Dynamite under a Factory.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Superintendent Wilson of the firm of Ronalds & Co., plumbers' material dealers, to-day found in the basement of the firm's factory in Schermerhorn st., Brooklyn, a dynamite cartridge. The upper part of the building is occupied by a manufactory of women's underwear, upon which nearly one hundred girls are employed. Had the cartridge exploded it is said it would have demolished the building and caused a fearful loss of life. Not long ago Mr. Wilson discharged two men who on leaving threatened him. The police are investigating the matter.

A Fire-Bug's Break for Liberty.

LANCASTER, April 16.—This afternoon "Tid" Brimmer, the fire-bug informer, who pleaded guilty to many charges of arson, attempted to escape from Sheriff High at the court house, where he had been taken to testify in a case. While returning from a closet to the court room he slipped down the private stairway and got into the yard. Sheriff High followed him, and just as he was going out into Duke street he was met by Deputy Strine. He turned, fell and was caught and placed in the dock.

Meeting with Success.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The striking carpenters are reported to be meeting with success in their demands for $3.50 per day. It is reported they returned to work to-day at increased rates. A number of non-union men joined the strikers' ranks during the day.

The painters' demand for an increase from $2.50 and $3 per day to $3.50 is reported to be meeting with general success, most of the employers having given in at once, and others promising to do so on Monday next.

Attempt to Shoot Senator Fair.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—The report is current on the street and about the hotels that yesterday afternoon the son of Senator Fair, of Nevada, aged about 20 years, attempted to shoot his father but was prevented from doing so. Rumor attributes young Fair's act to domestic difficulties between his father and mother, coupled with the too free use of liquor by the son. The matter is being kept very quiet, and it is difficult to obtain definite information.

A Promised Sensation in New York.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The Commercial Advertiser says: We have excellent authority for believing that before many hours have elapsed a prominent government official will make his presence known in this city, the object of his visit being to examine into certain irregularities practiced upon the government by certain large interests, which action, it is thought, will prove a bombshell in some quarters.

High Water in New York State.

TROY, April 17.—The trestlework of the Boston, Hoosac Tunnel and Western railway company's crossing at Saratoga Lake was submerged by high water yesterday, and 2 freight trains were abandoned. The high water also caused considerable damage at Mechanicsville and other points along the Hudson river.

Destroyed by a Hail Storm.

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 16.—The Disciple church at Lone Pine was destroyed last night by a heavy hail storm which passed over that section of the county. Much other damage was done to private dwellings, fences, etc. The loss to the church amounts to $2,000.

An Oregon Town in Peril.

OREGON, April 18.—A prospecting party was chased within three miles of this place last evening by Apaches. The town was surrounded by camp fires and signaling has been going on in the neighboring mountains. The citizens are mounted, waiting an attack. A special train from Camp Huachisca is coming with troops. Captain Black, the ranger, has arrived. He says he traced the Indians who killed Judge McComas and wife into the Sierra Madre mountains, in Chihauhue. The scouts got in sight of their camp in a deep canon and counted sixty-two warriors. They also observed a large amount of plunder and many animals. Captain Black feared to make an attack, as the rangers numbered but twenty.

Jay Cook in Wall Street.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Wall street young men who thronged the sidewalks at three o'clock this afternoon did not recognize the tall man, wrapped in a big blue cloak and wearing a broad-brimmed, mouse-colored sombrero, who leisurely strolled down from Broadway. He passed along, almost unnoticed, until Sam Wilkinson, secretary of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, saw him and said, "How are you, Cook?" and shook his hand heartily. The tall man was Jay Cook and this was his first visit to Wall street since 1873.

Precious Hope—Peruna.

One morning while he (her husband) was holding her up in order that she could breathe more easily, after having struggled with a bad spell of coughing, he made the remark that he did not believe that she ever would get well, when she, in her weakness, said: "Yes, I will, if you will bring Dr. Hartman." The doctor was brought. He prescribed a teaspoonful of Peruna every hour. She began to improve from the first dose she took. She told me to-day that she has never felt better in her life than she does now, and that she cannot say too much for Peruna.

A. J. MILLER.

Her husband writes: "South Chicago, Ill., Dec. 19, 1881; I have a living witness of the virtue of Peruna in my wife, who was saved from death by it. I certify that every word on page 30 in Dr. Hartman's book on the "Ills of Life" is true in every particular. T. S. EBERLINE.

Vital Questions!!

Ask the most eminent physician

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:

"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to women"—

And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically "Buchu."

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia, constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malarial fever, ague, &c." and they will tell you:

"Mandrake! or Dandelion!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable

A MODERN THOROUGHFARE.

A Street on Which Notable Improvements have been Made—To be Graced by Elegant Dwelling Houses.

The high thoroughfare extending along the eminence west of town in a line parallel with Linn street has of late been attracting the attention of citizens. Only a year ago the street east of Allegheny was a mere extent of uncultivated ground and it required a vivid stretch of imagination to picture it anything else for a long time to come; but a single year has worked wonders. It has been "opened up" at least a half mile east of Allegheny street and we can easily imagine that in a brief interval it will vie with the west end of the same thoroughfare in the number and elegance of its dwellings. The residents on that section can then look down compassionately on their certainly more lowly neighbors on Linn street, and perhaps Curtin street will be the thoroughfare of Bellefonte.

What is known as the Wolf prop-property has been converted into 20 building lots. Among those who have recently purchased one or more lots with the intention of building may be mentioned: James A. McClain, who purchased 2 lots; Col D. S. Keller, 1 lot; John Hoffer, 1 lot; A. M. Hoover, 1 lot; Frank E. Bible, 1 lot; E. M. Sturdevant, 3 lots; W.F. Reber, 2 lots; Kate Devling, 1 lot; Mary Devling, 1 lot; W. B. Rankin, 1 lot. Of these Messrs. Frank E. Bible, James A. McClain and W. B. Rankin have either commenced to build or are about to do so, while Col. D. S. Keller is seriously contemplating a similar enterprise. Mr. A. G. Curtin, Jr, is also about erecting a very elegant residence on the street.

Among the improvements which have already taken shape and prove a conclusive attestation of still further work in the same direction may be mentioned the fact that shade trees have been planted on both sides of the street the full length of the Wolf property. In a few years they will present a truly beautiful spectacle and their symmetrical shape will be a source of pleasure to all who view them from below as well as of great joy to those for whose special benefit they are designed. Water pipes are now being laid the full length of the street, the owners of property on the street having pledged themselves to reimburse the borough within three years for the expense involved in this undertaking. This will be done in the usual way by the payment of tax. We also understand that Ridge street will be opened up this week which will afford another means of communication from the eastern end of town.

The view from the street must be seen to be appreciated in any adequate degree. From all points of the compass an extended perspective is obtainable, exposing graceful hills and lovely dales, fertile valleys and towering mountains, flowing streams of crystal pure water, manufactories and industrial institutions, fields of growing grain and material wealth of all descriptions. The view is enchanting, and on its picturesque outlines the eye of an artist loves to linger, while the eye that beholds no beauties in nature will surely be granted that valuable gift when it rests upon the charming landscape from this point.

The lots along Curtin street are being disposed of at extremely reasonable figures; but of course they are rapidly appreciating in value. We understand that the enterprise which has so largely contributed to the development of that particular part of the town is in a great degree due to the efforts of our talented citizen, J. L. Spangler, Esq., who can give those interested much valuable information on the subject.

Fifteen Silver Dollars.

On Tuesday morning, the 10th instant, fifteen "bright, round silver dollars" were taken from between the bed clothing on a bed in the house of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Norman on Thomas street in this place. They had been carefully placed there by Mrs. Norman, who did not discover her loss until the next morning. She arose early to look for them and found that they had vanished. She asked her husband if he had removed them to perpetrate a joke upon her, but he did not even know they had been placed there. Mr. and Mrs. Norman know that the money was taken on Tuesday morning as that was the only time when both of them were absent from the house and consequently the only opportunity that presented for any one to enter the house for that purpose. It must have been some one who knew where the money was placed. Moral—keep your superfluous cash in a bank or some other equally safe place.

—A camp of the "Sons of Veterans" was organized at Milesburg on Friday evening.

A Ride to the Court House.

Mr. Alvin Stover, son of Mr. Frank Stover, proprietor of the meat market, chanced to travel in the direction of Snow Shoe some time ago. When returning from that mountainous city he met a solitary citizen of Italian nationality, so numerous just now, who interrogated him in a language that Alvin interpreted to mean, "Going to the Court House?" "Oh, yes;" said Alvin; and in a few moments a bargain was consummated by which Alvin was to convey the Italian to the Court House for a consideration of 75 cents. The Italian added a large bundle, or trunk, containing his worldly possessions and the twain started on their long journey. They did not indulge in much conversation as they could not understand each other and the journey was made in silence. In due course of time they arrived at the Court House in this place and Alvin succeeded in making his passenger understand that the end of the journey was reached and it would be agreeable for him to alight. The Italian looked around him; saw that he was in a strange locality; that a terrible mistake had been made; and forthwith he set up a lugubrious howl of agony. After an extremely heartrending scene in which neither of the participants could understand the other, the services of an interpreter were invoked, who discovered that the unfortunate Italian wanted to be taken to Karthaus, a well-known town in Clearfield county and not very far from Snow Shoe, where Alvin first encountered him. The similarity of sound was the cause of the mistake. No wonder the Italian was excited; for he had been conveyed many miles directly away from his desired destination. Well, the generous Alvin returned the man's seventy-five cents and he was put on the train with money enough to carry him to his desired haven, which we hope he reached in safety.

—On Tuesday morning of last week a reporter of this journal made a brief visit to that very important institution known as the Bellefonte Water Works which quite properly occupies so much of the time and attention of the gentlemen who interest themselves in the affairs of the borough. We found the engineer, Mr. Bateman, giving his attention to some of the machinery in the rear room. At the time we happened in the floor of this apartment was quite damp showing that he had just been putting it through a cleaning process. The works seem to the inexperienced eyes of the reporter very complete indeed and we can not wonder that the engineer in charge should take pride in keeping all about him in splendid order. In conversation with the engineer we found, to our surprise, that he had been working at the business since the age of fourteen years, and even earlier than that, as his father and brother are both practical engineers and as early as he could walk he would interest himself to all that pertained to the business. Mr. B. is now 25 which makes, at the least calculation, 11 years of close devotion to the intricacies of the business. He is not proud and self-sufficient in regard to his knowledge, but is always willing to learn more of those who are really capable to give advice. He has been connected with so many large establishments as engineer that the conduct of an institution even of the proportions of the Bellefonte Water Works is a mere bagatelle to him. He learned his trade with the firm of Cook & Gangle, at Selinsgrove. He has also been in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. We understand that he does all his own repairing, thus saving the borough something like $300 per annum. Last year the expense for actual repairs did not exceed $10. We understand he contemplates some improvements that will tend to beautify the surroundings of the spring, which we hope he will carry out.

—The twenty-fifth bi-annual convention of the U. S. and Canadian Young Men's Christian Associations will meet at Milwaukee, Wis., May 16th to continue in session until the 20th. Representation is based only on the number of active members; associations having one hundred active members or less are entitled to two delegates, and one additional delegate for each additional one hundred members. This will probably be the largest and most interesting gathering of the kind ever held. The following are some of the topics suggested for discussion: "The employment of Bible study in the work of the association in the development of the character of young men;" "What the community has a right to expect from the Y. M. C. A., and what the Y. M. C. A. has a right to expect from the community;" "Qualifications of heart and life needed in work for young men;" "What advantages have accrued to work for young men as a result of securing association buildings.' Bellefonte will be represented by General Secretary J. W. Miller and it is also considered desirable that another representative of the Association shall attend, although as yet no one has signified his intention of doing so.

Of Great Interest to Railroad Capitalists.

By a certain turn of fortune our well-known citizen, Mr. D. M. Butts, came in possession of the full level and transit notes of the route which was to have been taken by the Atlantic and Great Western railroad. They include the result of work which would require a year or more of labor by a full corps of engineers and are therefore of great value to railroad capitalists who seek a route through this part of the country.

Beginning at Milton, the route takes a direction toward Lewisburg; thence up White Deer and Sugar Valleys; thence down Cedar Run to Washington Furnace, near the Centre line. Then it takes a course through Nittany Valley to Bellefonte. It passes Bellefonte and extends into Bald Eagle Valley as far as Unionville; thence it crosses the mountain at what is called Sand Hill Summit near Amies' Gap to Philipsburg. From the latter place the course is east to Clearfield town.

Mr. Butts' notes include the grades plotted out from Bellefonte to Philipsburg.

Knowing the value of these level and transit notes to those interested in new railroads Mr. Butts will cheerfully exhibit them to all who call on him at his residence on Linn street.

Business!

Mr. John Bartruff's carriage manufactory has, during the past winter, been operated to its full capacity, the employes not having time to spend a day without work, from illness or any other cause. The forty railroad carts which have been in process of building are now completed. The stout, well-made vehicles bear the advertisement of the firm and will be very interesting to the Italians who, while at work, may try to decipher what the letters mean. Bartruff has a large number of orders for vehicles of different kinds and from all parts of the country, among them being a very handsome wagon for parties in Lancaster, Pa., which Mr. B. says will be a real beauty when completed. The low land surrounding the building is being filled up and made level with the street. This is slow work but is accomplishing a notable improvement. The owner is confident that, if he lives long enough, he will have an establishment with which no fault can be found even by the most fastidious, and as he is yet young, healthful and good-looking his anticipations will be realized.

—Mr. W. S. Zellers' drug store is the first establishment of the kind in Bellefonte to connect itself with the telephone-speaking world. We cannot imagine any place of business which it is more necessary to have connected in this way. Quite frequently people are in immediate need of medicines upon the speedy application of which their lives may depend, and the order for such medicines can go instantaneously over the telephone. People from all surrounding towns can order medicine of Zellers' drug store and every territorial addition will enhance the value of this improvement. The telephone is such a wonderful invention and promises to accomplish so much that we are pleased to see that business men are willing to take advantage of its utility. It shows that they are enterprising and believe in keeping pace with the times.

—The usual meeting of the borough council was held on Monday evening of last week, the resignation of Mr. C. T. Gerberich, councilman from the West ward, being the most important item of business that came before that assembly. It was accepted and the Chief Burgess instructed to order another election. The subject of laying water pipes as far as Mr. James McClain's building on Curtin street was again introduced and a strong delegation of interested citizens was present to urge the passage of the measure. The matter was put in the hands of Water Committee with instructions to lay the pipes if the citizens will agree to reimburse the borough for the expense involved within a reasonable period. Specifications for the abutments of Spring street bridge were put in the hands of the Street Committee to order a letting.

—An unusually large number of friends arrived in Bellefonte on the 17th and 18th instants to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Allen Schroyer, which took place at 2 p. m. on the 18th. Among those in attendance were Messrs. Chas. Benjamin and Hayes Schroyer, sons of the deceased.

—A "committee of arbitration" was in town recently to make arrangements in regard to the insurance on the house of Mr. William T. Leathers, near Mt. Eagle, recently destroyed by fire. Among them were C. Dale and John F. Barnhart, Bellefonte; G. L. Goodhart and Felix Burkholder, Centre Hall; Jacob R. Leathers, Mt. Eagle; W. F. Rearick, Spring Mills; and L. Neff, of Potter township.

Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer.

It is entirely different from all others. It is as clear as water and, as its name indicates, is a perfect Vegetable Hair Restorer. It will immediately free the head from all dandruff, restore gray hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It does not in any manner affect the health, whiley sulphur, sugar of lead, and nitrate of silver preparations have done. It will change light or faded hair in a few days to a beautiful glossy brown. Ask your druggists for it. Each bottle is warranted. Smith, Kline & Co., Wholesale Agents, Philadelphia, and Hall & Ruckel, New York. 14 24 1y

—The following "note" in reference to the M. E. charge at Milesburg and Unionville, Rev. W. W. Reese, pastor, is from the Conference News: "This charge starts upon the new year encouraged. They received their newly-appointed pastor in a becoming manner, and are looking for a pleasant and prosperous year."

PE-RU-NA

Is a new remedy, originally compounded and introduced to the medical profession, and then to the public at large, by S. B. Hartman, M. D. He has prescribed it to over 40,000 patients with the most gratifying results.

Its effect upon the system is entirely unlike that of any other remedy, and is the only medicine needed in almost every disease to which flesh is heir. (In Constipation, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, MANALIN should be given with it.)

PERUNA is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, each one, according to medical authors, a great remedy in itself.

Dr. Hartman has succeeded in extracting and combining the active principles of these ingredients into one simple compound, which perfectly coincides with the VIS MEDICATRIX NATURÆ in every disease, and a cure necessarily follows. There is not an organ it will not reach nor a disease it will not cure.

Ask your druggist for Dr. Hartman's pamphlet on the "Ills of Life," Dr. S. B. Hartman & Co., Osborn, O., proprietors.

has just received another lot of small Stem Winding Watches in Silver and Nickel, just the thing to make a boy happy, as it's the height of any boy's ambition to carry a Watch. These are reliable and serviceable, and are not expensive.

Also some more of those little bits of Watches which are so fashionable among the girls. These are much worn in other places and are considered just the thing.

A large line of Children's sets of Knife, Fork and Spoon with and without cases in Extra and Triple Plate. They are decidedly elegant goods; much more so than at any other season. A very few dozen of the Genuine Rogers' Triple-Plated Knives. They are as cheap as the imitation and worth twice the price of any other knife offered

A Gold Headed Cane would likely be just the thing you are looking for; they are useful, ornamental and always appreciated.

Gold Thimbles from the lowest in price to the most elegant. They are always just the thing and last a lifetime, and you can make no mistake.

See the Castors and Cake Baskets.

I would like to show you my leading Tea Set—cheap and just the thing for actual use, Copper Bottom, and can be set on the stove and used the same as Britannia or tinware, and they come very little higher than a common unplated set.

Some people thought it foolish to bring a stock of Fine Diamonds to Bellefonte, but they will find considerably more Diamonds worn here after the holidays than before.

Your attention is particularly called to Japanese wares. They are genuine goods made in Japan and not in Jersey. They must be closed out this week as I have no room to keep them over. They are all below the cost of importation and some of them are given away for nothing.

Local Department.

—John Mays, of Clearfield, who started with the Montana colony, has returned thoroughly disgusted.

—Full moon on Sunday. Unlike a good many persons we know, the moon is always prettiest when full.

—The proposition of the Watchman for a stone bridge across Spring Creek does not seem to be in order just now.

—The Camilla Urso Concert company will give an entertainment in this place on Saturday evening, May 12.

—A cheap orange man, a party of negro minstrels and a book agent were the attractions in town on Saturday.

—A colored man named Delige, of Scotia Ore Banks, was committed to jail on Friday afternoon on charge of assault and battery.

—It is decidedly pleasant to walk to McCoy & Linn's iron spring, and on arriving there a drink of the water is extremely refreshing.

—A partial eclipse of the moon was announced for the 22d instant. Only visible on the Pacific coast, Eastern Asia and Australia.

—Jack Frost's visit on Friday morning was the first we have received from him for some time. We do not think he did any harm this time, however.

—We are requested to state that a first-class nor'-east snow storm fell last Monday on the young lettuce, peas, etc., which have had the temerity to appear above ground.

—Young onions and tomatoes are displayed in front of the green grocery stands. These first productions of the season never present a particularly choice appearance.

—Among the letters in the Bellefonte postoffice is one incorrectly addressed, as follows: "Mr. A. Bardley, Sarville, P. O., Centre county, Pa." Also one held for postage which is addressed, "George Bubb, Esq., Williamsport, Pa."

—The Sunday 4 o'clock meetings in Y. M. C. A. hall have recently become more interesting. The young men's orchestra is always present and renders the music in a delightful manner. Mr. Stott, of the M. E. church, leads the singing.

—Many of our commercial people remember Mr. Thomas H. Brown, a fine old gentleman of commanding presence and pleasant manners, who for years traveled through Centre and Clinton counties. Mr. Brown died at his home in Wilmington, Delaware, last week.

—Mr. William Comer, foreman of McCoy & Linn's wire mill, has recently engaged in the incubator business, and with the aid of heat and a variety of simple apparatus is busily engaged in hatching out chickens. He is of quite an ingenius, inventive turn of mind and we hope to hear of his success in this enterprise.

—A very extensive reduction in one kind of groceries occurred Friday afternoon when fifteen or twenty papers of coffee came tumbling out of a box in front of the depot throwing their contents in all directions over the walk. It's about time for coffee to cease coming down at this rate The best way for it to come down is as a beverage inside the throat.

—Major William F. Reynolds has again given an example of generosity which may well be imitated by wealthy men. He does not confine his munificence to the church of his choice, but gives to all who need and merit his aid. We have just learned that he recently presented the M E denomination of Rock Forge $250 toward the erection of a new church edifice.

—In the general closing business on Sunday it should not be forgotten that some of the barber shops keep open on that day; that the ice cream saloons have been known to vend ice cream on Sunday and that within the history of this borough drug stores have also disposed of cigars during the hallowed hours of the first day of the week.

—A lady softly whispers in our ear that although Bellefonte is such a beautiful town and the climate so salubrious, the streets and thoroughfares are in a terribly neglected and unsightly condition, and if the reputation of the town as a pleasant place of summer resort is to be perpetuated immediate efforts should be made to clean away the debris and dirt and to put the walks in better repair. We think the lady's suggestion very appropriate and hope she'll whisper some more.

A RAILROAD REGION.

A Portion of Centre County now Swarming with Railroad Builders—Work on Two Lines.

A friend of this journal recently journeyed through the region lying between Moshannon Creek and the town of Snow Shoe and observed the progress made upon the several lines of railroad traversing that section. There are hundreds of Italians, Hungarians and negroes working upon the Pennsylvania and Western railroad, running between Beech Creek and Cato. They are constructing the road-bed and also building a wagon road near it. At the latter work the Italians exhibit more skill than the Hungarians and work very rapidly. The most difficult portion of the route which has yet been reached is the Big Tunnel on the Moshannon which will require hard work and ingenuity on the part of the railroad builders to overcome the difficulties it presents. We believe no ties have yet been put down, although countless numbers of them are lying in the woods near by ready to be laid in position.

In burning underbrush the men sometimes set the forests on fire, which is a subject of regret, as every acre of forest of any kind is increasing in value yearly. Quite an extensive conflagration was raging last week which the rain of Thursday night completely extinguished. It is related that a party of these foreigners recently encountered a nest of rattle-snakes. They took twenty-eight of these reptiles from their nest, placing them on flat stones and piling brush over them. Then they set fire to the brush, with a result that can be better imagined than described. Whether our foreign invaders knew the nature of the "varments" which they handled so familiarly deponent knoweth not. The Collins Brothers, who have this route under contract, are having the telephone extended from Snow Shoe, a distance of nine miles, to their headquarters. The telephone line will be completed in a few days.

The second route, upon which large corps of engineers are engaged, is what is commonly called Jay Gould's Continental, or the Punxsutawney and Milton route, but exactly who the controlling spirits are does not seem to be definitely known. It will cross the Moshannon south of the Big Tunnel. Then striking the head of the south fork of Beech Creek it extends across the head of Marsh Creek and thence down the South fork of the latter creek, by way of Mill Hall and Washington Furnace, through Nittany and Sugar Valleys to Milton. The route is not yet given out to contractors, but its construction is considered about as certain as anything can be.

Renewing the Pleasures of a Wedding Day.

A wedding day is generally regarded by all well-constituted husbands and wives as the most joyful and important period of their lives. Around it cluster many tender and beautiful associations and all other events of their existence are dated from that time. It is the centre of circumference, the zenith of the heavens as it were of all that is held in pleasant recollection. Therefore we do not wonder that affectionate married folks from day to day renew the joys of this delightful season, terming such occasions—as they are removed from the one great day—linen, crystal, silver, or golden weddings, as the case may be. It is appropriate that as they are further removed from the real wedding day they should be held in higher estimation until, at 75 years after, the diamond wedding caps the climax.

Well, on Friday evening last, the 20th, at an early hour, guests began to assemble at the residence of our friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Hamilton, residing near the village of Pleasant Gap. Pleasantly and cordially they grasped the hands of the happy couple at whose hospitable home they were to spend a few hours, for it was the time on which recurred the crystal anniversary of Mr. and Mrs Hamilton's wedding day. Forty persons were present and a hum of light and pleasant conversation soon made music within. They were all relatives of the host and hostess and of course the gathering was the more enjoyable and the intercourse unrestrained. Soon they were invited to assemble around the festive board and long and earnestly they discussed the bountiful viands before them, consisting of all that the prolific season and scientific culinary art can produce. Among those present were many from this county and also representatives from Williamsport and Lock Haven. Handsome testimonials of esteem were brought by each guest and many relatives who could not be present in person showed that they were there in spirit by sending remembrances in the shape of valuable gifts. Nor was the entertainment all of feasting for the physical man and woman. Prof. Johnson, a talented musician of Sunbury, was present and discoursed artistic music during the evening. This, it is unnecessary to say, was richly appreciated and assisted in the unalloyed pleasures of the occasion. It is the wish of all present and was so expressed ere they separated that the happiness which now attends Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton may indeed be crystalized into perfect and permanent bliss.

A Mystery.

Some time ago we recorded the fact that Isaac Sweitzer, a Polish Jew pack peddler, residing in Altoona, was missing from his home and had been seen not long before in Bellefonte and Snow Shoe. Perhaps some of our readers will remember him. It transpires that the Altoona Tribune has since then received a letter stating "that some boys who were at play near Curwensville, found a vest, which had been concealed under a large stone, and which excited suspicion from the fact that it was stained with blood and had been pierced by a bullet, as the burned edges of a small hole clearly indicated In the pockets were several blue Sunday school tickets." General Patton, of Curwensville, to whom the vest was given, made these facts known and they were published in the Tribune. Mrs. Sweitzer saw the account and requested that the vest be sent to Altoona for identification. She is positive it is the one worn by her husband, and the Clearfield county authorities are requested to clear up the mystery surrounding the discovery of the vest as Mrs. Sweitzer is pecuniarily unable to make an investigation.

Nail Works News.

Very quietly and uninterruptedly operations have been going on at the works of the Bellefonte Nail Company, "Limited," situated just below town. The one hundred and seventeen men steadily employed at the works find profitable and remunerative work, most of them residing close to their place of employment.

The capacity of the nail mill now reaches 150 kegs daily and the rolling mill 10 tons of iron in the same time.

A new building is in process of construction to increase the capacity of the nail mill. We believe that 21 nail machines are kept in steady operation and nine more will be added when the building is finished which will make the total number thirty.

Orders for the nails manufactured by this company are received from all over the United States The nails are acknowledged to be very superior, especial care being taken to keep the quality uniformly excellent, which cannot be said of many other manufactories. Such an establishment need not fear competition.

—Milton, Pa., has a new weekly paper published by G. M. Schuyler and B. F. Kister and called the Democratic Economist. It is an eight-page sheet, four of which are "patent." As it announces its intention of supporting the "best man" under all circumstances it should come into the Republican ranks at once, as there the best men are always found.

Organization of a Building and Loan Association.

On Saturday evening a very successful effort to organize a Building and Loan Association was effected in the hall of the Logan Hose House. About thirty or thirty-five gentlemen were present. George L. Potter was elected temporary president and F. E. Bible secretary. Several plans were discussed by those present in regard to the manner of conducting the organization after which Gen. J. A. Beaver offered a resolution which was in substance that the total number of shares of stock be limited to 1000 and the number held by any one individual be limited to 20. The resolution was adopted.

On motion of Chas. F. Cook, the chair appointed a committee to solicit subscribers to the Association stock, the committee to consist of the following gentlemen: Messrs. James A. McClain, J. H. Lingle, O. L. Hoover, James Schofield and Chas. F. Cook.

On motion of Mr. Rhoads, a committee was appointed to make application for a charter and also to frame a series of by-laws for the government of the Association which will be submitted at the first regular meeting for permanent organization. The committee consists of J. W. Gephart, A. J. Cook and S. M. Buck.

Two hundred and fifty-two shares of stock have already been taken and are held by thirty-one separate individuals It is undeniable that many persons are greatly benefited by Building and Loan Associations to which we expect to allude more at length in the future.

Affairs at State College.

Prof. George W. Atherton, President of State College, in his annual report on the condition of that institution, states that it was necessary to refuse admission to a few applicants at the beginning of the Fall term, as they did not, on examination, show sufficient preparation to go on; and at the close of the term, three were dropped who had indicated either a want of capacity or a want of the inclination to do the work of their classes. With these exceptions the students as a body, are applying themselves to their duties with an earnestness and cheerfulness that are exceedingly gratifying. It would be hard to find anywhere a more manly, courteous and respectful body of young men, or more womanly and self-respecting young women. So far, since President Atherton's connection with the institution, there has been but slight need of discipline, and none of a severe kind. He says: "I desire also to express my appreciation of the cordial support and assistance I have received from every member of the faculty, without exception. I know of no equal number of gentleman anywhere who are giving more faithful and devoted service to their duties and I look forward with undoubting confidence to the day when the people of the State will recognize and acknowledge the fact."

The Memorial Church.

Mr. William Jones, who has made arrangements to put a valuable stone to the memory of the late Captain Breeze in the Memorial Episcopal church at Gettysburg, recently heard that the erection of the church was a failure and addressed a note of inquiry concerning it to the rector in charge. He received the following reassuring reply:

GETTYSBURG, April 19, 1883.

DEAR SIR: I am sorry to hear from you that any one should spread the rumor of failure of our Memorial church. Only yesterday I had 18 stones hauled out on the lot, yours among them, and more will soon be added. The flags are flying to-day in our town, bells ringing and cannons were fired from Cemetery Hill, to celebrate the breaking of ground for our new R.R'd to connect Harrisburg, Gettysburg and Washington with the Pa. R. R'd system; and as this is a great boom for our town, so it must ptove for our unique soldiers' monuments, and no ill will can stop it. Until last night our new R. R'd was pronounced a failure.

Yours truly, A. E. T.

Wind's Work.

On Thursday afternoon at about 4.45 o'clock a very strong gale of wind—which, without the protection of the neighboring hills, might have been a veritable cyclone—swept over Bellefonte, carrying a cloud of dust and debris along with it. Almost as soon as it came it was gone. The boat house of the Bellefonte Boat Club on planing mill dam was unroofed; the immense sign of the Bee Hive stores was wrapped around the rope on which it was suspended; a team of horses on Allegheny street became frightened and would have run away, but couldn't make their way through the cloud of dust; the force of the wind blew almost all of the water out of the creek and for some time it was thought a new channel would be formed.

—A huge tree was cut down last week in front of Mr. John B. Linn's residence. Wherefore this destruction?

Mr. Robert P. Tuten and Miss Esther Tuten, brother and sister respectively of Mr. E. T. Tuten, editor of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN, arrived in town on Monday of last week and tarried a short time in this place. Mr. Robert Tuten will be remembered by the people of Bellefonte as a former resident of the borough at which time he was associated with his brother Edward as one of the proprietors of the REPUBLICAN. He is now most pleasantly located in Hancock, Mich. His former friends and acquaintances in Bellefonte were pleased to see him again.

Biting Horses.

Horses which are in the habit of biting or snapping at persons when they pass them, have been successfully cured of this habit by putting a hard piece of wood an inch and a half square in the animal's mouth, about the same length as an ordinary snaffle bit. It may be fastened by a thong of leather passed through two holes in the ends of the wood, and secured to the bridle. It must be used in addition to the bit. Animals of this sort should be treated kindly in the stable, and not abused with pitchfork handles, whips, etc. An apple, a crust of bread, or a piece of beef, and a kind pat, but firm, watchful hand and eye, will cure the most inveterate biter. The fact that he cannot shut his mouth or grip anything soon dawns upon him, and then he is conquered.

Rev. W. O. Wright Receives a Donation.

MR. EDITOR—Dear Sir: We are told, on the best authority, that "It is more blessed to give than to receive." This being true, the people of Snow Shoe City must be very happy indeed. They are noted for this peculiarity—that they give frequently and liberally. Recently they made the family of W. O. Wright very happy in the gift of a large box containing many good things—too numerous to mention. We take pleasure in mentioning this to their credit, and we would thus publicly thank them for this magnificent mark of their good will toward us. May they know to the fullest extent that "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Respectfully,

W. O. WRIGHT.

Philipsburg Pickings.

Rev. Wm. Hart will lecture in Potter's Hall next Thursday evening in the interest of the I. O. of G. T.

Mr. Gowland is building a new residence on Fourth street.

Cyrus Brodhead, Esq., expects soon to occupy a new residence which he is erecting on South Second street.

Mr. M. B. Wengert, dentist, is now one of Philipsburg's permanent residents. He came from Martinsburg, Blair county.

—We learn that our genial friend Mr. Joe Bauland, who was formerly engaged in the mercantile business in this place, has embarked in a similar enterprise in Chicago on a gigantic scale, equalling the Wanamaker establishment of Philadelphia. Several other men of means are associated with him in the project and between them all they expect to make things boom in the western metropolis. Joe is courteous and obliging, and full of push and energy, qualities which, in a business man, light the way to success, which we hope he and his partners will experience.

—Dr. T. R. Hayes, assisted by Dr. George Harris, on Wednesday, the 11th, performed a delicate and skillful surgical operation in the removal of an eye, Mr. Joseph Fetzer, of Boggs township, being the unfortunate person who was compelled to submit to the operation, his eye having been injured by coming in contact with a nail. It was feared that both eyes would become useless, and the operation was performed to avert this result. It is said to have been entirely successful.

Those Who are Ill.

Rev. William Laurie was not able to hold the regular service Sunday evening, being slightly indisposed. The venerable Mrs. Miller, residing on Howard street, has recently been suffering several severe attacks of asthma. Mr. C. U. Hoffer was confined to the house with a severe cold on Sunday. Washington Rees is also under the weather.

—A suggestion: Apply whitewash plentifully to fences along country roads, to wood-houses, chicken coops, etc. It is healthful and also makes the surroundings of any dwelling house assume a pure, clean appearance.

—Mr. Harry Flack, of Valentines Ironworks, and Miss Annie Sprankle, of this place, were married Thursday at 4 o'clock by Rev. S. E. Furst. They departed on the 5.10 p. m. train on a brief wedding trip.
